Celebrate the 6th International School Meals Day on: Thursday 15 March 2018

As part of our 2018 celebrations and to mark the Year of Young People in Scotland, we are producing an International School Meals Day (ISMD) cookbook full of recipes from around the world!

This competition provides an opportunity for students to share their favourite meal, perhaps provided at school or cooked at home – or food that is grown locally – and say why it is so special to them.

We want recipes and, where possible, accompanying drawings or photographs of the meal, or a poem written about it.

We will produce a cookbook to be published on the ISMD website and winners will receive their own printed copy – this will be a very limited edition!

We're happy to receive individual entries or joint ones if a class wants to work together and produce something as a group.

This competition is funded by the Scottish Government.
