The screenshot shows the Children in Scotland website interface. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the logo on the left and links for 'Accessibility help', 'Contact us', and 'Log in' on the right. Below the navigation bar, there is a breadcrumb trail: 'Learning / Training & Events /'. The main content area features a teal header for the event 'Person-centred planning: helping children determine their own futures' with the date 'Tuesday, 20 August 2024 | 10am – 12pm | Online'. A brief description follows: 'Develop person-centred planning tools to support the children and young people you work with as they start the new academic year. This session is aimed at professionals working with children and young people in a direct setting.' Below this, there is a 'Key Learning' section with three bullet points: 'How future planning can help children and young people in finding focus and motivation', 'Brain functions, and how they link to goal attainment', and 'Strategies to help children identify what is important to them, their strengths and who can support them'. To the right of the text, there is a 'Ticket Prices' section with a background image of colored pencils and a white ball. It lists '£40 members' and '£55 non-members' and includes a 'Book your place' button. Below the ticket prices is a 'Facilitators' section with a circular profile picture of a woman. In the bottom right corner, there is an 'Accessibility help' icon.
