

Hello everyone!

Why did we speak to you?

Some of us from Children in Scotland came to talk to you about different characters and activities which could help you learn about road safety. We did this because Transport Scotland asked us to find out your opinions on what you thought would be best for people like you in the future. We found out lots and lots from you, thanks!

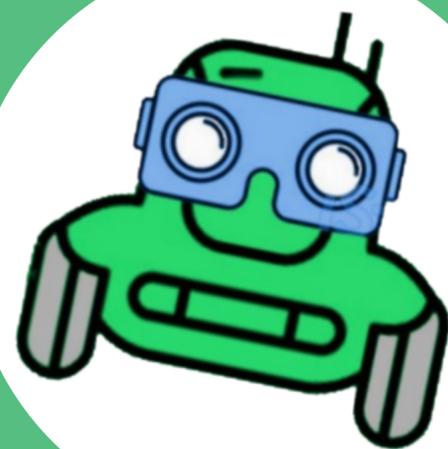

What did we find out?

You know lots about road safety! You told us about why road safety is important and how we can stay safe on and near roads.

We also found out that you have mixed ideas about working in a group or working alone. It looks like you all enjoy different styles of learning. You really like to see things being done first and then have a go yourselves. When we spoke about activities, you all said you really enjoy creative tasks.

Looking at the ideas from Transport Scotland, it looks like you liked all three characters and gave us great ideas on how to improve them. Some examples you gave were giving them all their own names and changing some to be more realistic.

What happens now?

With all of the great information that you shared, we wrote a report and gave it to Transport Scotland. They will use your ideas and feedback to help create new road safety characters and activities for pupils just like you to learn from in the future. They hope to share these new activities across Scotland autumn 2021.

Thank you for taking part!
